Steve Snyder: The Self-Employed Entertainer's Complete Guide to Federal Income Tax- Paramount Room

I see it every day. A self-employed entrepreneur, just like you, with a file full of questions about which expenses are deductible on Schedule C, and where I can help you prepare your tax return. Small business owners and entrepreneurs don't have the luxury of putting high-powered tax accountants on staff to figure out confusing and complex tax laws. By walking through Schedule C, and the most common, but often overlooked deductions, I helps sole proprietors get a better grasp of business expenses and how to report those expenses so that they are categorized properly. If you're a sole-proprietor responsible for filing Schedule C, I can help you accurately categorize your business expenses and report them on each line. I can help untangle the tax code and maximize your refund (or at a minimum, pay the least amount you owe).
